Dear Insurance Carrier and Agent for Service:

I am writing on behalf of the City of Benicia to follow up on previous correspondence from Mark O'Brien. We previously reported that the California Department of Toxic Substances Control ("DTSC") had threatened to issue an imminent and substantial endangerment order against the City for contamination on portions of the former Benicia Arsenal.

The threat has been made good. DTSC has issued two imminent and substantial endangerment orders, both of which name the City. Copies of both orders are enclosed as Exhibits 1 and 2.

As you will note, the orders include a rigorous timeline requiring the City, along with the other potential responsible parties ("PRPs"), to submit notices, communications and public participation plans, and even a remedial investigation and feasibility study ("RI/FS") workplan.

The City has retained the firm of Briscoe Ivester & Bazel LLP to defend it against these orders. Environmental Risk Services Corporation ("ERS"), which has extensive experience in environmental cleanups on former army bases, is providing expert consultant support. The City, Briscoe firm, and ERS have met with some of the other PRPs and are developing a coordinated response.

Historic Arsenal Park, LLC, which is one of the PRPs named in the DTSC endangerment orders, has submitted a formal tort claim to the City of Benicia. A copy is enclosed as Exhibit 3.

Dear Insurance Carrier and Agent for Service:

I am writing on behalf of the City of Benicia to follow up on previous correspondence from Mark O'Brien. We previously reported that the California Department of Toxic Substances Control ("DTSC") had threatened to issue an imminent and substantial endangerment order against the City for contamination on portions of the former Benicia Arsenal.

The threat has been made good. DTSC has issued two imminent and substantial endangerment orders, both of which name the City. Copies of both orders are enclosed as Exhibits 1 and 2.

As you will note, the orders include a rigorous timeline requiring the City, along with the other potential responsible parties ("PRPs"), to submit notices, communications and public participation plans, and even a remedial investigation and feasibility study ("RI/FS") workplan.

The City has retained the firm of Briscoe Ivester & Bazel LLP to defend it against these orders. Environmental Risk Services Corporation ("ERS"), which has extensive experience in environmental cleanups on former army bases, is providing expert consultant support. The City, Briscoe firm, and ERS have met with some of the other PRPs and are developing a coordinated response.

Historic Arsenal Park, LLC, which is one of the PRPs named in the DTSC endangerment orders, has submitted a formal tort claim to the City of Benicia. A copy is enclosed as Exhibit 3.
